

TRAINING OFFER

Systematic review with meta-analysis in Global Health

23-25.09.2022

IMEBI, Halle (Saale)
Germany

ABOUT TRAINING

In this two and half-day training, participants will be guided through the principles, methodological specificities and practical application of planning and performing a systematic review with meta-analysis. Of 25 slots, there are eight scholarships for pre-selected participants from LMICs. No participant's fee is required.

Application Deadline

30.08.2022

Source of Funding

SPONSORED BY THE

Federal Ministry of Education and Research

In collaboration with

Leibniz-Institut
für Präventionsforschung und
Epidemiologie – BIPS

Comprehensive Cancer Center
Niedersachsen

Claudia von Schilling Zentrum MHH

WESTFÄLISCHE
WILHELMS-UNIVERSITÄT
MÜNSTER

MARTIN-LUTHER-UNIVERSITÄT
HALLE-WITTENBERG

Universitätsklinikum
Halle (Saale)

imebi

TRAINING PROGRAM

Friday, 23.09.2022

- Introduction to systematic review and meta-analysis: guidelines, best practices, available software
- Development of search strategy and reference management software, risk of bias analysis
- Introduction of systematic reviews and meta-analysis of observational studies
- Social program

Saturday, 24.09.2022

- Epistemological and methodological premises of systematic reviews on qualitative research
- Non-standard reviews and other specific methodologies
- Introduction on performing a Cochrane Review

Sunday, 25.09.2022

- Preparing a research protocol for a systematic review

INVITED SPEAKERS

1. Dr. Prakash Shakya
2. Dr. Amand Führer
3. Apl. Prof. Dr. Julia Schumann
4. Dr. Marie Nicolini, MD, PhD
5. Dwi Gayatri, MPH
6. Ljupcho Efremov, MD, MSc

REQUIREMENTS

- Highly motivated and eager to learn about systematic review/meta-analysis
- Early career researchers (active in global health research and affiliation with a public research institution in Germany or from a LMIC)
- Planning to conduct the systematic review in the near future, in the area of global health, epidemiology, public health, or clinical interest.

Send your application: sr-workshop@uk-halle.de

- A short motivational letter (1 paragraph with 4 – 6 sentences) including potential review question(s)
- CV

